Description Holds a Pow-Wow With the Chiefs of the Duck Lake Re-serve and They are Deposed—Riel Turned

PRINCE ALBERT, N. W. T., May 25. Beardy and Okemassis, chiefs of the Duck Lake reserve, with some chief men, held a pow-wow with General Middleton Sunday expressing loyalty. Beardy protested that he had always been loyal and wished to keep this as a number of his young men took part in the Duck Lake and Batouche fights. The General said that as he was not able to nmand the young men he was not fit to be chief and ordered him to be deposed. He said further that men would be sent to re pair the telegraph wires, and that if a single shot were fired at them the reserve would be burned and all punished. Okemassis adshot were fired at them the reserve would be burned and all punished. Okemassis admitted being at Duck Lake and Batouche, but was too much of a coward to shoot on the militia, although he had a gun, to satisfy Riel. The General said: "A coward is not fit to be a chief. A chief should be a brave man," and consequently he would order his title to be taken away. The two deposed chiefs did not betray the least emotion. General Middleton, with the Midland Battalion, Coiton's company of scouts and 50 men of a battery of Quebec, left here by boats for Battleford.

Yesterday afternoon, Dirty Horn, a nephew of Poundmaker, came to camp and said the old chief was at Eagle Hills, about seventy miles from here, and was auxious to surrender. Couriers were immediately sent after General Middleton to inform him of Poundmaker's intentions which may

Only those Ministers whose de-partments are not actively connected with the army, navy, and Foreign offices are be-yond immediate reach. The

A decision for war or peace is confidently believed at all the embassics to be a question of hours and minutes. A continuance of the strained financial situation in Russia is not merely intolerable, it is simply impossible. At the treasury offices it is stated that the daily expenditure of the Russian Government under the existing war pressure actually exceeds the total daily cost of the Turkish campaign, and it is estimated that the war credit of 20,000,000 roundes, recently opened, will be exhausted early in June. A large proportion of the payment for the enormous Russian contracts for war materials, now out, must be made in paper, or fresh loans procured from native capitalists and bankers. Trading credit has already been severely shaken, and business badly demoralized in all the leading thipping and commercial centers of the empire, by the prospect of war and the bombardment of the scaports by the British fiests.

The imposition of fresh taxes is imminent, and the financial situation is so strained that actual war would be more tolerable than a long continuance of the present feverish restlessness and uncertainty. These facts are discussed and understood here, and are regarded at the embassica as insuring decisive action on the part of Russia at an early date. It was stated last night that the chiefs of the Opposition are spreading the startling information that negotiations have practically collapsed, and that Russia has declined every pledge required by the British Government. The Marquis of Salisbury's words at the Tory dinner and subsequently have set the example of outspoken utcerances, and in the unofficial world it is declared plainly that the pretense of the negotiation is a sham, only kept up pending the fiscal preparations preceding the formal declaration of war.

The "surprise" which the supporters of the administration say Mr. Gladstone will give the House on reassembling, is understood as the announcement of an alliance between Russia and Great Britain. It remains to be seen whether ther

Further drafts of English troops under orders for home from Egypt have be denly stopped, in consequence of the threat-ened combination of the powers hostile to British interests in that country. Paris, May 25.—An immense crowd of people gathered in front of Pere La Chaise yesterday. The vast concourse of people was orderly until the arrival of a body of Anarchists, who at once organized a demonstration over the bier of the dead poet. This was apparently the signal for a manifestation by the Communists, who came from all directions flaunting red flags. These were seized by the police, and a fight for their possession began. The police charged the Communists with fixed bayonets and the latter replied to the charge with revolvers. The police finally drove the rioters back and quelled the disturbance, but not until many of their number had been wounded. About thirty of the Communists were more or less injured, and many of them were arrested.

torney Dickson and United States Commissioner McKay were pooling their fees in unlawful cohabitation cases. The newly appointed Judge of the First district, O. W. Powers, called on the grand jury, and instructed them to investigate the charge. Hemenway, the editor, has been summoned to appear before the jury, and if he fails to sustain this charge it is intimated that he may be indicted for criminal libel. In the same court Thursday a Scandinavian applied for citizenship. Judge Powers asked him if he was living in polygamy, also if he believed polygamy to be just. He answered "No" to both questions.

New York, May 25.—Two years ago, James E. Crawford, a druggist of Sixteenth Street and Third Avenue, Brooklyn, was accused of taking his mother-in-law in a yacht to a barren island near Bellfort, and leaving her there to die, in order that he might inherit her money. Lately he showed signs of insanity, and on Wednesday night he went raving mad. He undressed himself and ran shricking out into the street. Attorney General Hamilton, interviewed as to how Riel's alleged American citizenship would affect his trial and punishment, says: Riel can be tried by military court martial as if he were a British subject. No right of citizenship gives protection in case of such offense. He could also be tried in the civil court and condemned, and in either case sentence could be executed with perfect safety, even if he were an American citizen. He forfetts all protection by violating the laws of the country, by which the act providing for punishment in such a case was made. A court martial is likely to be adopted in Reil's case and doubtless in any case, sentence will be executed.
